DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

The drawings are objected to because they are not labeled as "Replacement Sheet". Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3, 5-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kashuba et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,908,423).

Kashuba et al. disclose a reamer (see FIG. 2) for preparing a cavity in the intramedullary canal a long bone, the reamer comprising a first component (ref. #22) for preparation of the cavity in the canal, the first component including a portion thereof for placement at least partially in the cavity of the long bone, the first component defining a rotational centerline thereof; and a rigid second component (ref. #44) operably connected to the first component, the second component defining a rotational centerline thereof, the rotational centerline of the first component and the rotational centerline of the second component having a first relationship in which the centerlines are coincident and a second relationship in which the centerlines are skewed with respect to each other (see FIG. 4). The reamer further comprises a joint (ref. #29, #47, FIG. 2) operably connected to the first component and to the second component, the joint adapted to provide the first relationship in which the centerlines are coincident and the second relationship in which the centerlines are skewed with respect to each other. The first component includes a portion thereof having a tapered external periphery (see bottom of ref. #22); and wherein the second component includes a portion thereof having a drive connection (ref. #48a). The reamer further includes a securing feature to rigidly attach (col. 6, 66-end and col. 7, lines 1-3) the first component the second component in at least one of the relationships; the securing feature comprises a pin (ref. #12). The first component and the second component are hinged to each other. The first component and the second component define openings (ref. #24, #49) therein for receiving the pin.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 07/18/2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to Applicant's argument that Kashuba et al. does not include certain features of Applicant's invention, the limitations on which the Applicant relies (i.e., the reamers being locked together in a particular position for reaming a straight line instead of a circular path) are not stated in the claims. Therefore, it is irrelevant whether the reference includes those features or not.

The rejection is deemed proper.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
